Robbers Steal Food Enough to Stock Up Grocery Store

Since Friday night there have been three robberies of grocery stores in Tulsa and the police are on the watch for people who sell any groceries resembling that stolen.

The first robbery was at the Hatcher Produce company, 17 west Archer street, when thieves broke open the rear window of the building and got away with 13 cases of eggs and 30 pounds of butter, valued at $400. This was the third time this store has been robbed in as many months.

The next robbery was in the White Star market, when thieves entered by means of a panel of the rear door and turning the night latch, six pieces of bacon, five country hams and five pounds of lard, valued at $100, were taken.

Sunday night the Yorktown grocery was entered by thieves removing the large glass from the front door and getting away with 14 pounds of steak, 30 pounds of bacon, two buckets of lard, 50 racks of smoking tobacco.

The police think that the same person or persons committed the three robberies. No arrests have been made.

She said that she did not know that the whisky was on the premises until it had been taken by the officers.

W. H. HALL was found not guilty by a jury in the county court Monday afternoon. The testimony showed that about a pint and a half of whisky was found at his place at 1215 East First by the sheriff's forces on January 17. The jury decided that this amount was not sufficient to show that he had any intention of selling the whisky.

ALL CASES appealed to the county court from the police court, 245 in number, were dismissed Tuesday by County Judge W. H. Williams, who declared that his court did not have jurisdiction. A recent decision of the supreme court held that the police court did not have jurisdiction in cases where the fine exceeds $20, as in the case in all the appeal cases, and Williams held that his court could not take jurisdiction if the police court did not have it originally.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER
Wash the Poisons and Toxins
From System Before Putting More Food Into Stomach.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or seeped into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing.—Adv.

"American Ace" Most Vivid War Spectacle Ever Staged

The "American Ace" showing at the Empress this week is without doubt the most advance notice stated.

The "American Ace" showing at the Empress this week is without doubt the most advance notice stated. The greatest production that has been presented on the Vandever stage of America.

It is a war play, and coming when the war is a matter of history and the war spirit, which put many a hand to the plow, is a most timely and well produced. There are thrilling scenes in it when you can't keep your flesh from tingling with the thrill and your fingernails sink into the flesh of your palms at a stretched hand is your mannerism in excitement.

There is an airplane battle, a marvelous bit of scenic effect and you see the aircraft gun spit fire into the Hun plane which falls to the earth. Yet got the effect of a floating sensation as though the entire theater building were a great plane hurtling through the air.

But probably the finest bit of re-promotion is the trench scene. Both the effect and the production here is rare. The doughboys are waiting to go over the top. They are joking and kidding down their nervousness as the American soldier does, with his humor and spirit of abandon. Starshells light up the darkness occasionally and shells are continually whistling overhead. At intervals a terrific explosion, throwing dirt and debris into the trench and drenching the little group of Yanks.

Then comes the zero hour and a terrific bombardment begins. Shells burst after all sides. Flashes light the ground at the top of the trenches and one by one the doughboys climb the little trench ladder and start across no man's land.

It is hard to conceive of a stage production that could be more realistic or more moving than this. It just grips you down in the chest and you stand up and cheer with a sort of intense hatred for the Hun and you feel almost like rushing upon the stage and going over too. Other features of the play stand out too, but not like the trench scene. There is a German air bombardment. The working of the Hun spy system is cleverly woven into the plot and there is a little French maid with whom an American lieutenant is in love.

Lieutenant Darrow, the "American Ace," personifies the Yankee flyer and Colonel Bean from Boston, is a typical Yank commander. Good acting is plentiful throughout the play and the scenic effects are beyond description.

MORRISON ASSERTS LABOR WILL REJECT PRICE PLAN
WASHINGTON, March 10.—Organized labor will refuse to "share in the results" of price readjustments if its "living standards are to be endangered," Frank W. Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement tonight.

Mr. Morrison criticized the declaration made by the federal reserve board in a recently published review of its forthcoming monthly bulletin that all factors in production "should bear their share in the general process of readjustment."

"The board seems to accept the economic error," said Mr. Morrison, "that the price of a commodity and the price of labor are identical. Where wages are reduced living standards of the workers are immediately affected and the home suffers."
